To whom it may concern:

At the last commission hearing I asked several questions about the excavation work that needs to occur for this project to be built. 1. How much dynamite will be used? 2. How many days will dynamite be used? How will dust and dirt from the explosions be controlled/mitigated. Given what was revealed about lead and arsenic in the soil this is of particular concern. 3. The developer indicated that most of the rubble will be moved to other parts of the mountain. Please define "most". How many dump trucks will be used to haul rubble off site?

To those questions asked during the committee hearing I would also like to ask. How close to my house will dynamite be used? Will I be living in a blast zone?

I appreciate the commission allowing the public to comment on this project.

Sincerely,

Niels P. Vernegaard
