Subject: Treasure development

Surely the Planning Commission understands that Old Town Park City is itself the treasure. Once you green-light the "Treasure Hill" development, you will lose forever your uniqueness. There will be no taking back the originality, history, and charm you've preserved once this concrete jungle is insinuated on the mountain. You'll just be one more blighted village that caved in to greed.

Take a lesson from the California hillsides now blanketed with development, spoiling views and ruining the mountains for all time.

It's a travesty. What can you be thinking?
