Topic 2: Public Comment: Any Items Not on the Agenda

Jocelyn shared an update regarding the Olympic Sculpture, which had fallen over the weekend due to rusted bolts and corroded structural metal. The Streets Department removed and safely stored the sculpture at the old Maverick site. The piece, originally created during the 2002 Olympics and formerly located at the Kimball Arts Center, is under Park City's public art collection. Staff has contacted the artist, William Crandall, and will investigate the structural integrity of the sculpture. A formal update and recommendation—whether for repair or deaccession—will be brought to the board at a future meeting.

Topic 3: Approve Minutes from the March meeting

Pamela motioned to approve the previous meeting's minutes, seconded by Elsa. Motion passed unanimously.

Topic 4: Staff and Board Communications

Jocelyn Scudder announced that the Arts Council has been officially awarded the Public Art Management contract. She will now serve in a formal role, supported by a team including a marketing manager and a public art administrator.

Jocelyn highlighted that the Arts Council team will manage public art communications, calls for artists, and support related logistics, including for projects such as the community center and playground installations.

Chris Eggleton and Jocelyn welcomed Chloe Mair, the temporary Administrative Assistant, who has been helping with meeting preparation and administrative duties during Stephanie Valdez's maternity leave.

Chris acknowledged the smooth staffing transition and noted the growing support infrastructure with Jocelyn and the Arts Council in a formalized role.

Three new board members were confirmed to start in August: Emma Gerard, Phil Hildebrandt, and Bailey Quinn. Staff will collect short bios and set orientation meetings. Emma is a triathlete and trainer; Phil is a retired financial professional from Chicago; Bailey formerly worked in Summit County communications.

Elsa was thanked for her years of service and contributions to the board, including her attention to detail with meeting minutes and her creative insights.

Community Center RFP is live and due at the end of August. Both the Arts Council and City are promoting the opportunity.

Meeting Schedule: The board voted to cancel the July 14th meeting due to multiple scheduling conflicts and no pressing agenda items. Motion by Jess, seconded by Samantha. All in favor. The next meeting will be August 11th.

Jeremy Ranch Roundabout Sculptures: The naming contest for the Sandhill Crane and Moose sculptures is currently open. Voting links have been shared online and at local libraries and Swaner EcoCenter. Installation is anticipated later this summer.

Rail Trail Project in Coalville: Recently funded project with the theme "Quilted Together," inspired by local quilting history. Art installations will reflect the regional cultural narrative.

Summit County Justice Center: An RFP for artistic benches will be released soon under the 1% for art program.

Latino Arts Festival: Scheduled for June 13–15 at Canyons Village. Activities include live music (Brazilian experience opening), food trucks from nine countries, Latin-inspired artisan market (El Marketto), visual artists on the lawn, kids' activities, and adult lounges.

Deer Valley Café Concerts: Weekly lunchtime concerts will begin this Thursday and continue throughout the summer.

Bus Stop Shelters: Artwork by Elizabeth Walsh has been installed at some shelters. Others are pending vinyl wrap or sealant. Additional artists are finalizing their pieces.

Utility Boxes: Ongoing phased installation. Delays due to rust on boxes affecting vinyl application. New wraps are expected throughout neighborhoods.

Creekside Project: Permits are in progress. Installation is scheduled for July, with the project wrapping by the end of August.

Pool Fencing: Installation has been delayed due to the extended pool construction timeline. Expected completion is now 2026.

Chairlift Art Project: Managed through Vail's Epic Promise initiative, with artists paired with nonprofits. The unveiling event is June 11th.

Library Study Room Art: Exhibit opening scheduled for the evening of June 12th.

The board revisited the proposal to fund 20 artful bike racks featuring five designs tied to distinct Park City neighborhoods.

Estimated cost is $9,000 (excluding artist stipends), with rack prices ranging from $430 to $800 each.

Board members discussed using one artful rack per location and incorporating neighborhood-specific color schemes or cutout designs.

Discussion included public/private partnerships, future grant opportunities, and phasing the project over five years.

Staff was directed to explore feasibility, budget options, and a potential call for artists. No formal vote taken; general consensus to move forward.

Chris reviewed the public art budget.

$500,000 allocated via the 1% for Art program from projects like the community center, MARC pool fencing, and Homestake trail improvements.

$400,000 set aside for broader arts initiatives such as utility boxes, shade structures, neighborhood art, and administrative contracts.

Estimated $200,000 in available funds for upcoming projects and planning.

Staff is preparing a multi-year budget plan to support new initiatives and maintenance needs, including for the Olympic sculpture.

Kara motioned to adjourn the meeting at 5:55PM motion seconded by Pemela. All in favor. Meeting adjourned.
